KEY PERFORMANCE INDICATORS

SUMMARY

Despite elevated interest rates, U.S. hotel transaction activity remains strong. Over the past 12 months, hotel sales totaled approximately $28 billion, up roughly $7 billion year over year. Momentum accelerated in the second quarter, with transaction volume increasing 36% compared with the same period in 2025. Through the first half of the year, sales reached $13 billion, exceeding the roughly $10 billion recorded during the first six months of both 2024 and 2025.

Investor demand remains particularly strong for high-quality, full-service assets that benefit from both group and leisure demand. The recent sale of the JW Marriott Marco Island Beach Resort for $835 million from Mass Mutual to Sculptor Real Estate and Trinity Investments illustrates continued appetite for trophy properties among institutional and private investors.

A portion of current transaction activity is being driven by maturing debt. As bank loans and commercial mortgage-backed securities approach refinancing, some owners face the prospect of injecting additional equity at a time when financing costs remain elevated. For owners unable or unwilling to do so, a sale often becomes the most practical option. Brokers also point to fund-life considerations as a source of deal flow. Many funds launched around 2019 are approaching the end of their investment horizons, prompting asset sales as limited partners seek liquidity and capital redeployment.

The majority of transactions continue to occur below the $50 million threshold, typically involving local or regional investors supported by community and regional banks.

While luxury and upper-upscale hotels attract national and international capital, limited-service properties are more likely to trade off-market or among smaller buyer pools.

Looking ahead, investment activity is expected to remain healthy. Limited new hotel supply continues to constrain development opportunities, making existing assets more attractive to investors. Combined with solid operating performance during the first half of the year, these dynamics are expected to support transaction volume through year-end, with full-year sales likely to exceed 2025 levels.
